TROOP A GOES TO INDIANTOWN THIS MORNING

Members of Adams county's Troop A, 104th Cavalry, of the Pennsylvania National Guard under the command of Capt. Robert L. Scott, were among the vanguard of 6,000 officers and men streaming into Indiantown Gap today for the opening of the 15-day Guard training period.

Riding in two trucks, 17 members of the local unit of the National Guard left the State Armory here about 7:15 o'clock this morning.

An Army "ghost town" for more than a year, the Indiantown Gap military reservation was once again revitalized by the influx of trainees representing 149 units from all sections of the Commonwealth.

Supplemental Training
Three areas of the $5,000,000 camp were spiced and span for the accommodation of the troops eager for daily sessions of familiarization with military tactics and technique after army training in their hometowns. Special trains from throughout the state released their cargoes of manpower from the camp's railroad at nearby Lickdale starting last night. Troops from Harrisburg and vicinity were making the trip by motor convoy.

Major units to take the field when actually training starts Monday will be the 28th Infantry Division, commanded by Brig. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler, Lancaster; the 11th Infantry Regimental combat team, and the 51st Anti-Aircraft Artillery Brigade, headed by Brig. Gen. Charles C. Curtis, Allentown.

Honor Shannon's Memory
By virtue of his seniority, Curtis already has been designated as encampment commander by Brig. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general, who also plans to participate in the training in an advisory capacity.

It was also reported that U. S. Sen. Edward Martin, former Pennsylvania governor and a retired general, may come here from Washington to witness the training sessions. Martin commanded the 28th Infantry Division when it was federalized several months prior to world war two.

An advance detail of 32 officers and 120 men arrived here earlier this week to set up supplies and other necessities for the encampment, known as Camp Edward C. Shannon in honor of the former lieutenant governor and 28th Division commander.

Half Million In Pay
Tomorrow's activities will feature chapel services, orientation of officers and key non-coms and rehearsals by instruction teams.

Actual field training will cover a period of 92 hours. In addition, specialist schools of 20 hours each will be conducted for all officers and non-commissioned officers attending field training.

Gen. Weber estimated the training pay for the 6,000 officers and men will amount to nearly $500,000, including $444,744 from federal funds for ground units and $15,650 for the 53rd Air Wing which trains only in the second week. Additionally, the state allows each enlisted man 50 cents a day during the 15-day encampment, a total of $37,500.

Federal pay to the guard is at regular army rates. The encampment earnings are in addition to one day's pay each week for two hours' training at home armories.

EAGLES TO PAY FOR BURIAL OF UNCLAIMED DEAD

Indigent persons whose last days are spent in the Adams county home will no longer have to look forward, if their bodies are unclaimed after their deaths, to being shipped to the State Anatomical Board, Philadelphia, and eventually to a hospital where their remains will be dissected and used in anatomical studies.

Gettysburg Aerie No. 1562, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at a regular meeting at the Eagles home on Chambersburg street Friday night, voted to claim the bodies of all persons who die in the county home or the county jail whose bodies are not claimed by anyone else, and see that they are given a "decent" burial.

Several county undertakers to whom the matter has been broached, have also agreed to cooperate in providing a coffin and graveside services for these "forgotten" people. Ministers, several of them, have agreed to donate their services for a Christian burial.

Geiselman Initiated Move
The Eagles Friday night voted that they would provide $50 for the burial of each unclaimed body. This amount, with the cooperation of undertakers and ministers, will provide proper burial, and assure those in the county home who have little to look forward to except death that their bodies will not reach a dissecting room.

The action of the Eagles and others marks the culmination of efforts on the part of Ralph C. Geiselman, registrar of vital statistics. "Ever since I have had this job, I have hated to issue the necessary permits for shipment of bodies of unclaimed dead from the county home to the anatomical board," he said.

"Many of these old people are in the county home through no real fault of their own. They may have suffered adversity. They may be the last child of a family, with nobody left to care what becomes of them. When they die, their bodies are placed in a box, filled with cracked ice, and shipped to Philadelphia."

Two Or Three A Year
The anatomical board, under the law, must keep these bodies for 30 days. Then if they are still unclaimed, they are turned over to hospitals for dissection.

PILGRIMAGE TO TOMB AUG. 17

Arrangements for the annual pilgrimage to Mother Seton's tomb, Emmitsburg, by members of the various parish councils of the Conewago Deaneary of the National Council of Catholic Women, have been made by the officers of the deaneary with the Sisters of Charity at St. Joseph's college, Emmitsburg. The pilgrimage, which is open to men, women and children, will be made on Sunday, August 17, at 2:30 p. m.

The tomb is located on the college grounds. The shrine and other landmarks on the grounds closely associated with Mother Seton's life will be visited.

Efforts to effect the canonization of Mother Seton were begun by the late James Cardinal Gibbons in the latter years of the last century and were continued by his successor as head of the archdiocese of Baltimore, the late Michael J. Curley. Should Mother Seton be declared venerable, beatified and finally canonized, she would be the first native born saint in the United States.

The Conewago Deaneary which is planning the pilgrimage is composed of N.C.C.W. units in all parishes of Adams county and of several parishes in Franklin county.

Countian Is Hailed As Top Policy Man In State Dept.; AP Man Writes About Kennan

George F. Kennan, U. S. State Department official who is an Adams county taxpayer and makes his farm near East Berlin one of his favorite hobbies, is the subject of a special article today by John Scall, Associated Press writer, in which Kennan is described as "playing a major role in guiding American foreign policy during the next critical years."

The article follows:

By JOHN SCALL
Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—A 43-year-old state department official who thinks best with his feet, on the desk will play a major role in guiding American foreign policy during the next critical years.

George F. Kennan, veteran of 20 years in the foreign service and one of the few American diplomats who speaks Russian fluently, heads the department's newly-created policy planning staff.

This staff was established last May by Secretary Marshall with the sole purpose of developing long-range policy.

Kennan's task is to see world problems in advance and have "answers" and specific courses of action ready for instant use. Currently he and the five men on his staff are surveying world economic conditions to suggest what can be done to speed global recovery.

Tall, balding Kennan has long enjoyed a reputation as an expert on Russia and has been an important cog in the state department machine ever since graduation from Princeton university.

Kennan's associates feel he is peculiarly suited for the unprecedented job assigned him. They say an ability to fit current developments into long-range thinking is a trait Kennan possesses in abundance.

Noted For Informality
In the starched shirt and dress trouser league, Kennan is noted for his informality. He does his best thinking when his knees are propped high and he is lounging back in his chair.

Kennan likes to reduce each problem to its simplest terms. His writing shows this remarkable characteristic—a factor that at-

Dutch Claim New Attacks By Indonesians In Java

Batavia, Java, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Dutch army said today that 300 armed Indonesian Republicans had attacked a Dutch outpost near Soerabaja, East Java, and others had attempted infiltrations elsewhere in Java despite a cease-fire order which went into effect last Monday night.

The Dutch communiqué said the attack in the Soerabaja area—at Tandjoengkoel—was repulsed and that the Indonesians suffered losses.

On the north central front, near Semarang, Dutch artillery replied to Indonesian fire shot for shot, the communiqué added. The Dutch said they have suffered 13 killed, 33 wounded and one missing in Indonesian truce violations since the cease fire order went into effect.

In addition, the Dutch declared, the Indonesians were continuing scorched earth tactics around Semarang, on the north central coast of Java, where estates were reported ablaze. Guerrilla activities also were continuing, the Dutch said, with Republicans erecting tank traps and road blocks.

Dutch patrols operating throughout the Dutch occupied areas captured and destroyed considerable amounts of arms and ammunition, the communiqué said, and put a stop to "looting and terrorism."

The Netherlands Navy announced the losses, including Marines, in the 15 days of fighting ended by Monday's truce, numbered 15 dead, nine wounded and two missing. The Dutch said they rescued 2,000 Chinese civilians which Indonesian forces were attempting to carry off to the mountains of central Java.

Inspection Period Extended To Aug. 15

The State Revenue Department yesterday extended the automobile inspection sticker period from July 31 to August 15 at midnight.

A spokesman for the Department said the period for obtaining inspection stickers was advanced "because labor trouble in the Pittsburgh district had caused a jam-up at inspection stations in that area."

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, State Police commissioner, said a message was sent out late today by teletype to all State Police substations informing them of the extension.

Colonel Wilhelm said the extended period includes all types of vehicles.

Troop A, 104th Cavalry, Pennsylvania National Guard

This is the fifth of a series of brief biographical sketches of the officers and enlisted personnel of Gettysburg's Troop A, 104th Cavalry, Pennsylvania National Guard. This feature is presented as a tribute to the men who have voluntarily offered their services, in peacetime, to their country through the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Sergeant Little, 27, 349 Poplar street, Hanover, entered the army August 31, 1942. Sent first to Fort Meade, he was transferred to the gunnery school at Las Vegas, Nev., and then to Yuma, Ariz., gunnery school. He was then transferred from ordinance to the infantry and took training at Camp Howze, Texas. Returned to Fort Meade, he was sent to the Philippines via Camp Stoneham, California. Arriving at Luzon, the Philippines in May, 1945, he was assigned to the 35th Infantry regiment of the 25th Division and took part in the final mopping up of Japanese on Luzon. A sergeant, he served as a squad leader.

He was then assigned to the force that was scheduled to make the invasion of Japan, but instead, after making a mock amphibious landing after the surrender, was placed on occupation duty. He served in the occupation force for several months before being sent back for his discharge which he received January 17, 1946.

Countian Is

tracted the attention of his superiors.

During the Russian-Italian dispute of 1946, the United States chartered its moves mainly on the basis of cables received from its minister-counselor in Moscow.

That minister-counselor was Kennan. From 1945 to 1946 he served as chief aide to Averell Harriman, who came to Moscow as American ambassador with no previous diplomatic experience.

Farm Is Hobby

This was Kennan's second tour of duty in the Russian capital. He had accompanied the first American ambassador to Moscow in 1933 after studying all phases of Russian language and history for five years. Even today he refers frequently to passages from Chekhov, Tolstoy, and Dostoevsky.

One of his favorite state department companions is Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, another useful Russian speaking official.

Kennan has numerous hobbies. When he is not repairing his farm in Pennsylvania, he plays the piano or the guitar or sketches.

Norwegian Wife

Known as a "family man," he has a very attractive wife, the former Annalise Sorenson of Norway, and two young daughters.

Enthusiastic by temperament, Kennan nevertheless maintains an open-minded attitude toward Russia. He can cite statistics about Russian production, geography and other characteristics, all gained from his intensive study.

Kennan has served in Latvia, Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and Portugal.

Mr. Kennan has been suggested in Washington circles as the likely author on an article on Russian relations printed first in Fortune magazine and later reproduced in part in Life magazine with the author identified as "X". The article has been hailed by political observers as an important outline of U. S. policy toward Russia.

SEEK GEMS OF KAISER'S WIDOW

Berlin, Aug. 9 (P)—U. S. criminal investigation agents disclosed today they were hunting $500,000 worth of jewels belonging to the late widow of Kaiser Wilhelm II, which her son said vanished last June from a trunk in which he had them hidden in the American sector of Berlin.

The agents said the owner of the gems—Princess Hermine Von Schoenbach-Carolath, who died Thursday at Frankfurt-am-der-Oder in the Russian zone—had spirited 95 pieces of jewelry worth an estimated $1,000,000 to her son, Prince Ferdinand, in the U. S. zone.

They said a young German woman, friend of the Prince "risked her neck" to smuggle the collection out of the Russian zone in a valise to Ferdinand, who was to convert the valuables into cash for investment in hotel and other interests in western Germany.

However, Ferdinand told investigators, before he could dispose of the jewels, 29 of the "best pieces," worth about $500,000, vanished from the trunk in which he had them locked.

Investigators—attempts to unravel the mystery—have encountered a maze of intrigue involving fortune tellers, characters from the Berlin underworld and persons of half a dozen nationalities, including an unidentified American civilian in whose house Ferdinand—with his "million dollar trunk"—was a guest for a short period.

life. It is more than that, however, because these old folks who have little to do but sit around, are very conscious of the passing of one of their number and it saddens them when a body is shipped to Philadelphia, and they worry whether they will meet the same fate."

Mr. Geiselman estimates that since January 1, 1906, approximately 50 bodies have been shipped from the county home here to the anatomical board. In the last five and a half years that he has been registrar, the most in any one year was three. It is usually one or two a year, he says.

Went Beyond Request

"The law provides this disposition of unclaimed bodies, but a peculiar part of the law is that if a tramp walking along the highway is struck and killed, even though he may be wholly unknown, the county must bury him," Mr. Geiselman said. "It does not bury the known, but unclaimed dead."

Mr. Geiselman asked the Eagles for $40 per body, for those who die at the county home. The Eagles went farther and voted to provide $50, not only for those who die in the county home, but also for those who may die in jail.

These bodies may be buried in "Potter's Field," the cemetery at the county home, or it is possible, Mr. Geiselman said, that some arrangements may be made with the trustees of Evergreen Cemetery to bury some of them there.

Today's Talk

THE POWER OF PATIENCE

I have never been able to accept that philosophy which says that those who serve merely stand around and wait. Perhaps I am not able to interpret it aright, but I believe that we should do some sort of serving while we are waiting for some good thing to turn up.

Patience is a wonderful asset to any human being, but I can see no reason why we should lie down on it, as though it were a bed, and take a long nap. Patience is of no value unless we use it for a purpose.

In that remarkable little book by Harry Brown, called "A Walk in the Sun," he says: "The soldier learns to wait meekly, hoping that something will happen. And when the period of waiting is at an end the something that does happen isn't what he expected. So in the end he learns to wait and expect nothing."

But war violates all laws. In peacetime, at least, we should always possess ourselves with patience—and expect something. It is the objective of our dreams, our hopes, or our plans, that gives to us this patience, and which feeds it.

I love to feel and handle the exquisite examples of the craftsman's art. You know at once that it took long periods of patience and skill to complete each example. You can almost feel the warmth of love that has been imbedded within. Perhaps you can—some can!

It may take many years for your dream to come true, but when it does, how glad you are that you never lost patience, that you never wavered in faith, and that you believed every inch of the way. Patience exerts a powerful influence upon all that we do. It enriches everyone who abides by its rules. Impatient people, sooner or later, fall apart.

The shut-ins know what patience means by compelling it to enrich them in mind and heart. As do those long ill, or disabled in war. Anything worth attainment takes patience, and plenty of it! Patience and courage are running mates.

FRIENDLINESS

I've been round the town a bit;
Know it, end to end.
Think in every part of it
I could find a friend.

Never smiled on anyone
Who returned a frown.
Never had to turn and run
From a soul in town.

Know that people mean exist,
Quick to strike a blow.
Signs of friendship they resist.
Never met them, though.

Sure am I that this is so:
'Twasn't hard to learn.
For the friendliness we show,
Friendship will return.

Riding with Russell

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
BY FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.A.E.

The biggest mistake any driver can make is to think he never makes one.

Every Little Movement

The way your car rides depends to a surprising extent on how you drive and what you do by way of maintenance. But first let's get clear on the car's two motions other than its forward movement. These are known as "pitch" and "bounce."

"Pitch" is the car's eagerness to rotate about a center within its own wheelbase, whereas "bounce" is an oscillation about a center which is outside the wheelbase. "Bounce" is much slower and often can be checked by inflating the front tires a little more. "Pitch" control calls for your handling of the car. For instance, it can be checked by changing the rate of speed. You can do this with the accelerator or with the brake.

It Had a Tantrum

If you are not yet thoroughly convinced that automobiles are perpetually mystifying let me tell you about a friend of mine who recently ran out of gas. At the filling station where they pushed him several willing hands tried to get the motor running again, eventually being rewarded with half-hearted cooperation. Even though they cleaned the points, checked the fuel pump, freed up the choke and monkeyed with the carburetor the engine wouldn't run long enough to take the car home. Its owner got a push, shoved the car into the garage and called it a bad day.

"What was wrong with your car?" I asked him a week later.

"Just opened the garage doors, stepped on the starter and away she went," he explained. "Haven't done a thing to it since."

I finally had to take a look at the car that bothered its owner by tire squealing on curves. It was getting to be quite a problem. Not only did he change all the tires but he tried them at different pressures. But always that bad squeal.

The first thing I noticed when driving along with the owner of this car was the sensation of going too fast. Being quite familiar with the particular make and model I was naturally surprised to feel that I was traveling so much faster than I thought I should be going. Soon I was watching the speedometer. You have probably guessed that it was about 10 miles an hour slow.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"In these days of running and reading it is only natural that so many motorists should get into trouble knowing only half the story of the care of their cars. Sometimes half the story is worse than not knowing the story at all.

"I am reminded of this because I just had an argument with an owner who insisted that because the instruction book says the crankcase of his engine holds seven quarts of oil he should add that much oil to the crankcase after draining off the old oil. On his engine nearly a quart of oil remains in the system; after draining. When he adds seven new quarts the engine then has one quart too many—a condition that may cause foaming and interference with the oiling system."

Must "Feel" The Road

Believe it or not, there is a certain advantage in having the front tires drag a bit. If it were not for this you would not be able to steer the car because you couldn't feel the road.

They proved this in motordom years ago by designing a completely effortless steering gear. Even the engineers couldn't steer properly.

specially at night.

So if the car seems to be wandering a lot and you do not have your usual sense of road "feel" the chances are that the tires are over-inflated. You may notice this on a hot summer trip when pressures increase because of expansion.

Caught in a Jam

At this time of year we are likely to be caught in long lines of delayed traffic at ferry boat crossings, open draw bridges or just plain traffic jams. Here it is always a problem to keep the engine happy. If you decide to switch off the engine be sure to open the throttle wide when you restart, otherwise there will be delay and fireworks from starter-motor to propel the car for the short movements of traffic. If you do this, use low gear. This isn't too much of a drain on the battery in view of the fact that on your trip it has been charging at a high rate anyway.

to a heavier grade you can get quicker starts by shifting to second first and then back to low. I prefer this to trying to start in second.

Note On Parking

It always looks professional to pull up beside an available parking space and wait there for other cars behind to move around, but it is often a good way to invite an argument or even to lose the space altogether. Better plan is to stop parallel with the space or just behind it. You then protect the space which is rightfully yours, and you also shield it from the view of others. They know for sure you are waiting for them to go by and give no hint that you have vacated the space.

Useful In Traveling

When motoring through strange cities one way to tell whether left turns are permitted is to take a quick look at the street paving. If other cars are turning you will see the tread marks on the street. These same marks often are a good guide if you come to a tricky intersection and do not know how to negotiate it.

Another handy guide is oil marks on the road. Where cars regularly roll there is always the telltale mark of dripped oil and grease. This is particularly useful on those white concrete roads where complicated

Covers MORE GROUND to Save You Money and OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

Interested in saving money? Here's your answer. The wider, flatter B.F. Goodrich tread puts more rubber in contact with the road. This greater road coverage means more rubber to share the wear, less wear at any point, a longer lasting tire that covers more ground before its service life is ended.

Millions of test miles and actual experience in regular car owner use prove this tire actually OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES.

Remember price is only what you pay. What a tire costs you is measured in length of service. You pay no premium for the extra value features of the new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown... and per mile it saves you money.

Having Their Problems

Q. Even after a clutch reline there still is far too much grabbing and chattering when I start out. I was careful to see that the engine, clutch and transmission are in line. Any suggestions?—H. L. D.

A. Check up on the engine. Maybe it is missing. A lot of engine trouble is back of clutch misbehavior. You can't get a smooth start if there is bucking in the power source.

York Springs

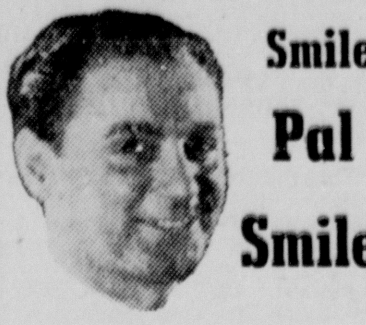

York Springs—Mr. and Mrs. Lance D. Jacobs with their two little daughters have been spending some time in Philadelphia with Mrs. Jacobs' mother who was recently widowed.

The Girl and Boy Scout troops will be the beneficiaries of proceeds from the carnival planned by the local Lions club for the evenings of Friday and Saturday of next week. Music for the first night is to be furnished by the band of the Boiling Springs high school, while the local high school band has been engaged for the closing night.

A number of boys of the local Scout troop have been spending the week camping out at Caledonia park in charge of Scout Leader Richard Myers, with the Rev. Ralph W. Meckley, local Lutheran pastor, and the Rev. Orville V. Warner, minister of the local Methodist church.

Another of a series of annual summer vesper services was conducted Sunday evening with the sermon delivered by the Rev. Paul L. Pouik, Hanover Lutheran pastor. The devotional leader was Miss Jeanne M. Brame. Instrumental music by a quartet was also a part of the service.

Egypt Express Is Blasted Off Tracks

Jerusalem, Aug. 9 (AP)—The crack "Egypt Express," bound from Cairo to Haifa with British troops returning from leave, was blasted off the tracks by a mine at Wilhelmina, near Lydda, today, an official report said. The engineer and fireman were buried beneath the debris.

The army said, however, that no military casualties resulted.

The mine, which the official announcement attributed to the Jewish underground, blew four coaches off the tracks.

The same train was attacked by bombs and gunfire three months ago and five persons were killed and a score wounded.
